AMERICANS SEEKING BURGOMASTER WHO IS ANTI-HITLER

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
Aachen, Germany, Oct. 23 (AP)—The citizens of this corpse of a city were trying to return to it in large numbers today, and American military government officers set out immediately to find and appoint a burgomaster who is anti-Hitler and who held a civic office prior to 1933.

The AMG assumed control of Aachen at noon. Earlier it had appeared there would be almost no military government job to do, because there was nothing much to govern.

It has turned out otherwise, for the citizens are slipping back in straggling groups and guards have been placed at the city's entrances to make certain the civilian return does not become a stampede.

No More "Hells"
The population now is about 200—compared with the normal population of about 160,000—but still a much greater number than was here Saturday.

Sixteen orders of the U. S. Army have been posted. They set up a curfew extending from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m., prohibit public or private gatherings of more than five people, bar Nazi music and the Nazi salute, and in general make it clear that the American forces are here as conquerors.

Six men are on the list of candidates for burgomaster. He will be paid—if at all—by the people who live here and those who will return later. The list is in the hands of military government officers headed by Maj. Thomas F. Lancer, former New York state police official.

The first job of the military government is to find out how much of the city's water system can be repaired, then to turn the pick and shovel work over to the Germans themselves.

Officials Must Be 50
This is the American army plan being followed here, as Maj. Lancer and Maj. Pelham St. George Bissel, also a New Yorker, outlined it.

Food—No American army rations are to be given German civilians. Captured German food will be made available to them only after they have signed papers acknowledging that this is a debt owed by the city of Aachen to the U. S. government.

Water—The water supply is to be restored by German labor and German material, with the American officers giving only their advice and help as consultants.

Telephones and lights—these are up to Aachen; the American army has no interest in the matter.

Administration—The Burgomaster is to be selected from among those known to have been anti-Hitler and to have held office prior to Hitler's regime. City police will be selected on a similar basis, except that in addition they must be more than 50 years old—in other words not likely to have been successfully indoctrinated by the Nazis.

Revolt Grows In Spain Against Franco Regime

London, Tuesday, Oct. 24 (AP)—guerrilla warfare to overthrow Spain was seething on the verge of revolt early today as clashes broke out between Gen. Francisco Franco's regular Spanish army and Spanish Republican forces.

The Spanish national radio, in one of its first admissions of any widespread conflict inside the country, said the fighting was centered in Navarra on the Spanish-French frontier.

The extent of the uprising was not entirely clear.

BOMBERS BLAST REICH TARGETS

Daylight Raiders Blast Munich Area; No Enemy Aircraft Met

London, Oct. 23 (P)—Eight hundred heavy bombers from the U. S. 15th Air Force in Italy hammered objectives today near Munich, Regensburg and Augsburg in southern Germany, and in western Czechoslovakia, following up a raid by a small force of British-based Mosquitos last night on Hamburg and other targets in the western Reich.

Preliminary reports said the daylight raiders and their escort of Lightnings met no enemy aircraft. Yesterday, 2,500 American and British planes speared deep into Germany without a single loss and meeting only one enemy plane.

Fortresses from the 15th Air Force struck in Czechoslovakia, while the Liberators attacked in Germany. They encountered flak over most targets, and heavy clouds forced the majority of the bombers to drop their explosives with the aid of instruments.

Other Liberators from Italy bombed objectives near the Brenner Pass railway line into northern Italy, while tactical air force Thunderbolts flying through all the solid cloud banks over the Po valley strafed and bombed enemy transport.

RAF Lancasters escorted by Spitfires attacked gun emplacements on the Dutch island of Valtich this afternoon, making the second assault in three days by British heavies on German batteries which have been harassing the Canadian ground forces. Four bombers were lost.

Most U. S. Eighth Air Force planes remained at their bases in England today because of bad weather on the continent.

CLEVELAND FIRE KNOWN DEAD 115

Coroner Expects Total Toll Of 200; 84 Homes Are Destroyed

Cleveland, Oct. 23 (P)—Ghastly ruins of humble homes and the seared rubble and twisted metal of shattered industrial buildings today gave up the bodies of additional victims of a liquid gas explosion and blaze that Coroner S. R. Gerber said would take a toll of possibly 200 lives.

The tragic list of dead climbed to 115 during the day. Of these only 36 were identified. There were 102 names on an official roll of reported missing, including 47 East Ohio Gas Co. employees. Investigators said many missing would be among the unidentified fatalities.

Chairman Albert M. Higley of a Red Cross sub-committee said a survey indicated at least 84 homes completely destroyed in the area between East 55th and East 63rd street, from St. Clair avenue on the south almost to Lake Shore Boulevard on the north.

Persons whose damaged homes still were habitable, and located outside the immediately area of desolation, returned to make them ready for occupancy again.

The Red Cross has obtained temporary shelter for some 630 homeless persons and supplied them with clothing and medical aid.

ROAD PROPOSED TO FALLS PARK

$1,383,000 Expenditure Outlined For Famed Tahquamenon Area

Lansing, Oct. 23 (P)—The falls will be protected from the spoiling effects of civilization in a proposed $1,383,000 improvement program planned for the Tahquamenon Falls state park. W. J. Kingscott, chief of the conservation department park division, said today.

Kingscott said the park with its native forests offered "unlimited possibilities" and that the site would be kept as natural as possible.

Principal feature of the plan calls for a $1,000,000 highway project to make the upper and lower falls easily accessible. The new highway would be 20 miles long, extending from the end of M-123. Access now is by recent unimproved road, by boat or by foot.

Other portions of the plan include a $25,000 bridge at the Tahquamenon river, a $30,000 tent and trailer camp and drives, a $20,000 parking space and a $10,000 trail system along the river and to the falls.

The Roving Reporter

By ERNIE PYLE

Somewhere in Sicily, August 1943—Outside of the occasional peaks of bitter fighting and heavy casualties that highlight military operation, I believe the outstanding trait in any campaign is the terrible weariness that gradually comes over everybody. Soldiers become exhausted in mind and in soul as well as physically. They acquire a weariness that is mixed up with boredom and lack of all gaiety.

To lump them all together, you just get damn sick of it all.

The infantry reaches a stage of exhaustion that is incomprehensible to you folks back home. The men in the First Division, for instance, were in the lines 28 days—walking and fighting all that time, day and night.

After a few days of such activity, soldiers pass the point of known human weariness. From then on they go into a sort of second-wind daze. They keep

GERMAN LINE IN HOLLAND IS BADLY DENTED

LIBERATED DUTCH CHEER BRITISH SECOND ARMY

BY HOWARD COWAN

London, Tuesday, Oct. 24 (P)—The British Second army early today hammered at "S-Hertogenbosch," the German shield for all of western Holland, and the enemy defenses seemed about to buckle, but Canadian forces to the southwest were reported withdrawn from Breskens on the south shore of the Schelde River estuary in a "confused" situation.

The Canadian First army had taken Breskens, a ferry port on the long waterway leading to Antwerp, Sunday and had pushed beyond. Late dispatches from the supreme Allied headquarters at Paris, however, said the Canadians had retired from the town last night and that there was see-saw fighting in the area.

In their advance on "S-Hertogenbosch," the British wiped out a whole battalion of the 712th German infantry division and took 500 prisoners, including one regimental and one battalion commander.

The hard-driving Tommies, smashing in on "S-Hertogenbosch" from three directions, rocked the Nazis back approximately six miles in liberating the important towns of Schijndel, Middelrode, Olland and Bruggen. They received tumultuous welcomes from the Dutch populace.

Fresh momentum was given the British offensive against the western flank of the Holland bridgehead by a new attack launched at midnight from the south side of the Zuid Willemsvaart Canal, southeast of "S-Hertogenbosch." The Germans tried desperately to regain their balance and realign their defenses, but were handicapped by an obvious shortage of artillery in this sector.

Dempsey's vanguards, in three columns, were two and a half miles northeast of the city at Rosmalen, four miles east of it at Berlicum and four miles south at St. Michaels Gestel and were fighting for a bridge across the Dommel River at Bostel, six miles to the south.

An upper British spearhead, approaching the city from the northeast along the railroad from Oss, was reported within five miles of "S-Hertogenbosch."

Canadians Clear Estuary
"S-Hertogenbosch," a city of 41,000 also known as Bois Le Duc, is a junction of five rail lines and an important center of motor roads and waterways. The Nazis captured it May 12, 1940, after German troops in Dutch uniforms seized its vital bridges and defense centers.

Canadian troops, sweeping north from the liberated town of Esch-sur-Alzette, were reported to have taken the town of Esch-sur-Alzette, a town of 1,000 people, and to have taken the town of Esch-sur-Alzette, a town of 1,000 people, and to have taken the town of Esch-sur-Alzette, a town of 1,000 people.

To the west Canadian First army troops forged steadily ahead in steady fighting along the Schelde estuary.

Activity on the American First army front was limited to mopping up in the Wurselen area.

Reds Push 19 Miles Into Nazi Homeland; Memel Reconquered

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Oct. 23 (P)—The Red army in a two-way smash into pre-war Germany has overrun almost all of Memel territory, reaching the Niemen river along its entire course to the Baltic sea, and penetrated 19 miles deep into East Prussia from the east on an 87-mile front, Moscow announced tonight.

In a crushing offensive that for the first time carried Russian warriors into the Nazi homeland on the long road from Moscow and Stalingrad, Premier-Marshall Stalin announced that Third White Russian army troops led by the brilliant young Jewish tank expert, Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky, had overrun 900 towns and villages, 500 of them German, in an attack from the east.

A Soviet bulletin then announced the capture of 500 towns and villages in the reconquest of Memel territory, a 1,099 square-mile area ceded to Germany by Lithuania March 22, 1939, under German pressure.

All of Memel territory, except the town of Memel itself, was recaptured in a breakthrough by Gen. Ivan C. Bagration's First Baltic army which cleared the Niemen river's northern bank from its mouth on the Baltic to the Lithuanian town of Jurbarkas.

This second front clear across the top of East Prussia has been formed, and Berlin said the Russians were attempting to cross the Niemen and take Tilsit, a large rail city.

The smash by Cherniakhovsky's troops into East Prussia, now a week old by Berlin's account, was the deepest Allied penetration yet of Germany.

The Third White Russian army's attack into East Prussia was on both sides of the Kaunas-Konigsberg highway, aimed straight toward strategic Insterburg and Konigsberg, East Prussian capital.

Premier Stalin's first order of the day announced Gen. K. A. Meretskov's Alpine troops, moving through the Land of the Mid-nicht Sun, had captured all of the nickel mining area around Petsamo and cut the Rovaniemi-Kirkenes highway as they converged on Kirkenes, big German naval base in Norway.

Among the localities taken in that area, which by Finnish cession to Russia gives the Soviets a common frontier with Norway was Salmijarvi, 18 miles south of Kirkenes and just across the border on the Finnish side.

Spearheaded by tanks, the doughboys drove stubborn Japanese from the hills blocking the northern entrance to the valley while other forces threaded the swamps at the southern anchor of the line.

FRANCE ARISES AS NEW NATION

DeGaulle Government Is Recognized By Allies

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Oct. 23 (P)—Under the leadership of aggressive General Charles De Gaulle, the republic of France emerged today from four dark years of defeat, occupation and the ravages of war to take control once more of its own destinies as a sovereign nation already promised a position of power in the councils of peace.

Two actions by its Allies marked the rebirth of the republic: 1. The United States, Britain and Russia at noon eastern war time simultaneously recognized the regime of which General De Gaulle is president as a "provisional government."

2. General Dwight D. Eisenhower turned over to this administration virtually all metropolitan France except the western front combat zones, by declaring the non-combat area to be an "interior zone." That includes the capital of the provisional government, Paris.

Not since German invaders enveloped the shattered nation in the summer of 1940 had France attained such stature in the family of nations or such control over its own affairs.

Recognition by the three great powers was accompanied by similar action of other nations, including Canada, Australia, Brazil, Peru and Venezuela.

Paris, Oct. 23 (P)—George Suarez, veteran Paris journalist, was convicted tonight of collaborating with the Germans during the four years' occupation of France and was sentenced to death after a trial lasting less than six hours.

The court ordered confiscation of all of Suarez's property. The courtroom crowd cheered the verdict. The court emphasized the severity of its verdict by attaching to it the brand of "national indignity."

The trial was the first of a series during which the government intends in the next six months to deal with 100,000 persons accused of aiding and comfort to the Germans.

Suarez, formally charged with intelligence with the enemy, pleaded innocent at the opening of the trial in the gloomy old Palais De Justice. He faltered in the prisoner's box and paled as the four man jury composed of two clerks, a hospital guard and a doctor brought in their verdict after 30 minutes' deliberation.

GROUND GAINS ARE EXTENDED IN PHILIPPINES

NIPPONESE CHASED UP VALLEY, FACE ENTRAPMENT

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Leyte, Philippines, Tuesday, Oct. 24 (P)—Liberation of three flank islands to Leyte and 11 communities on this main island was announced today in a late communique.

The islands of Dinagat, Suluan and Homonhon, where American forces landed three days before the main invasion, were declared liberated.

The communique reported that on Leyte the Japanese counter-attacked the 24th division west of Palo, but were thrown back with bloody losses.

BY C. YATES MDANIEL

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Oct. 23 (via army radio) (P)—American ground forces tonight held the main coastal approaches to Leyte valley after winning dominating hill positions and fighting through swamps that had impeded the westward thrust of their invasion front on Leyte island in the central Philippines.

Spearheaded by tanks, the doughboys drove stubborn Japanese from the hills blocking the northern entrance to the valley while other forces threaded the swamps at the southern anchor of the line.

Enemy Being Encircled

These advances threatened to encircle Nipponese defending the southern end of the front, who already were in retreat northwestward. Doughboys of the Seventh division were in hot pursuit. They overran the enemy's hedgerow defenses in an effort to catch the fleeing Japanese.

Yanks of the 24th division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, knifed out from Palo in the northern sector. They combined surprise and overwhelming firepower to seize an important hill southwest of the town of about 3,000, overrun earlier.

A heavy bombardment by American warships standing off Leyte in the gulf dislodged the Japanese from their concrete positions atop the hills. When the bombardment lifted the enemy started to reoccupy their dugouts. American infantrymen, however, outtraced them and gained the summit through sniper and machinegun fire.

Tanks In Action

The southern spearhead, paced by tanks led by Lt. Col. Herbert R. Edmondson of Gainesville, Ga., hurled strong enemy defenses in its thrust from Dulag. This operation as well as the action to the north was developing in terrain ideal for armored warfare.

Palo, the hub from which the northern thrust was stemming, is about 14 miles above Dulag. Both east coast ends of Leyte valley, which roughly parallels the eastern coast of the island, are held by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's assault forces. The valley is about 25 miles wide at its lower end, on the gulf, tapering to a width of about 10 miles at the northern end on Carikara bay. It is about 35 miles long and is crossed by many

War Fund Includes Six Delta County Agencies

While over 50 per cent of the money raised in Delta county in present United War Fund drive goes to the USO and other war agencies, the remainder will be retained in the county to meet the operating budgets of six local organizations which in the past conducted separate fund-raising campaigns.

This is the second year the local agencies have been included in the War Fund drive. Last year their budgets were a part of the fund-raising campaign, and it is anticipated that in the future a permanent community chest program will be undertaken.

The United War Fund is composed of the USO, United Seamen's Service, War Prisoners Aid, agencies providing aid to refugees of the war-stricken Allied countries, and other war agencies.

Of the total of $40,000 which is the 1944 goal of the War Fund and community chest for Delta county, $22,121 will go to the United War Fund and the remainder will go to Delta county agencies in the following amounts:

Boy Scouts of the Red Buck district, $6,500; Salvation Army, $3,169.45; Campfire Girls, $75; Cod Liver Oil Fund, $225; and Veterans Relief to provide assistance to veterans and their families not provided for under the federal program, $6,000. There is also a contingent fund of $1,499.55.

Most Delta county citizens are familiar with the work being done locally by local organizations such as the Boy Scouts, Salvation Army, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, and other agencies participating in the War Fund drive. The public in the past has contributed to these agencies in separate fund-raising campaigns. Now they are included in one drive with the War Fund.

The $22,121 which is the United War Fund share to be raised in the county goes to help maintain the USO, War Prisoners Aid, United Seamen's Service and agencies to administer to the people of war-ravaged foreign countries. The activities of these foreign relief agencies extend over six continents and embrace more than 90 countries and major geographical areas.

Patton's Third army troops, sorely handicapped by almost continuous rain and deep mud in northeastern France, fought into the village of Bezeange-La-Petite, 19 miles east of Nancy, but were forced to withdraw by dug-in German tanks. To the south other Yank units had reached Hill 284, west of Moncourt, and held two-thirds of Moncourt Forest, but had not yet penetrated the town of Moncourt, a front dispatch said tonight.

SCORE INJURED AT DEDICATION

New Kingsford Heights Church Is Scene Of Mishap Sunday

Twenty-three persons were injured, six seriously, when a temporary structure erected by bricklayers at the new St. Mary Queen of Peace church, facing Edsel street, in Kingsford Heights, collapsed Sunday afternoon, under the weight of some 100 persons who crowded forward at the close of the ceremony marking the dedication of the cornerstone.

The accident occurred as the Rt. Rev. Francis J. Wagner, Bishop of Marquette, was pronouncing the benediction. At that moment, according to witnesses, some 300 persons, who were crowded along the Edsel street side of the new structure, surged forward, to hear the concluding ceremony. There was a crash, as the frame platform swayed inward, and then collapsed, bringing scores of persons down with it, onto the sand floor of the basement.

Nazrine Gentilini and Frank Saparapani, who said they had been assigned to holding the crowds back, told what they knew of the accident.

"We had warned the spectators several times," Gentilini said, "and I was trying to get the crowd back when the first row of spectators pushed out onto the platform. The structure held up all right until the end of the ceremony, when the crowd began to step back onto the ground. Then it swayed slowly in, towards the basement, and collapsed."

Bishop Wagner, at the dedication dinner following the program Sunday night, expressed regret over the tragic climax to the ceremony, and asked guests to join with him in offering prayers for the injured.

City Recreation Center Program Resumed Here

City Manager George E. Bean has announced the appointment of Mrs. Zania Rivers as temporary director of activities at the Recreation Center, located at the corner of Fourteenth street and Third avenue south.

Mrs. Rivers has had previous experience in the work of the center. Previously she was active in the department and worked under the supervision of Bevier Butts, who resigned a few months ago to take a similar position in Muskegon, Mich.

Beginning today the center will conduct a regular schedule of activities in connection with the fall and winter program. Mrs. Rivers will continue in charge until a new full time recreation department head to succeed Mr. Butts has been secured.

Some of the leaders who conducted recreation center programs last year have moved out of town and those vacancies have been filled by other qualified workers. Mrs. Rivers has outlined a program for adults as well as children. The following tentative program has been announced:

Monday through Friday, 3:30 to 5:30, arts and crafts for school age girls.

Monday through Friday, 7 to 10 p. m., arts and crafts will be conducted by Mrs. Bertha LaChapelle.

Wednesday and Thursday, 7 to 10 p. m., arts and crafts for adults will be conducted by Miss Marie Schuster.

The woodwork shop, game room and gym will be open as usual Monday through Friday from 3:30 to 5:30 and from 7 to 10 p. m. Working in this department on a part time basis will be Clifford Anderson, shop; George LaFave, gym; Doris Costly, gym and game room; Louis Aschinger, gym and game room, and Mrs. Hartwig, game room.

Pre-school play center hours will again be 2:30 to 5 o'clock, Monday through Friday, supervised by Mrs. G. Cramer. Mothers who desire to bring their children to the center are required to call phone 1347 any day between 2:30 and 5 p. m. to register.

Mrs. Rivers explained that it will not be necessary to bring pre-school children to the center every day as was the case last year. Mothers may bring their children one afternoon or every afternoon, as they desire. Since only a limited number of children can be accommodated, however, mothers are expected to call each time before bringing their youngsters to the center.

The play department is equipped with numerous pre-school toys and other materials to take care of a number of children. William Hedsten again will be custodian of the building.

The fund was increased thus to $47,061,000.

Dupont Confined In U. S. Hospital

Sgt. Wilfred Dupont, who was wounded in Italy on July 7, arrived in New York Sunday night on a hospital ship. In a long distance telephone conversation with his mother, Mrs. Eva Brazeau, Dupont stated that he expects to be hospitalized nearer home before long.

Dupont still is in a cast from his hips to his toes as the result of the wounds sustained in battle. He mentioned that the hospital ship required 14 days for crossing and that they had a smooth trip except for one rough day.

The Escanaba man was quite enthusiastic in expressing his pleasure in getting back to the United States. "Even the air smells better here," he told his mother.

"Bill", who has been overseas since March of this year, entered the service in December 1941. Before the war he was engaged in orchestra work in this area and headed the group known as "Escanaba's biggest little band."

JUDGING BEGINS ON WEDNESDAY

Educational Conference And Banquet On Thursday

Entries from virtually every county are arriving to compete in the fifteenth annual Upper Peninsula Potato Show, which will open at the Coliseum in Escanaba today and will continue for three days. James G. Wells, Chatham, U. P. county's agents supervisor, is manager of the exposition.

Placing of exhibits in the large hall will be the principal activity on the opening day. Judging will start Wednesday morning and will be completed by late afternoon.

Thursday will be the busy day at the show. The vocational agriculture judging and grading contests will be held in the morning, and the afternoon will be devoted to an educational meeting to be held at the court house. Exhibits of potatoes that won prizes in the various county shows will compete for Upper Peninsula honors here.

Also competing for an Upper Peninsula title will be the various county potato queens, who will be special guests at the banquet on Thursday evening.

Registered Voters Now At 8,412 Mark

The number of registered voters in the city of Escanaba has increased since 1940 to 8,412, the highest number in the city's history, it was announced by City Clerk Carl Anderson yesterday.

In 1940 there were about 7,100 registered voters in the city. The increase has been largely within the past few months, when interest in the coming presidential election brought out many who never before had voted. Combined with this was the large number of absent voters, mostly men and women in service, who are automatically registered when they apply for absent voters ballots.

DELTA QUEEN—Emma Falkies of Baldwin township was elected to represent Delta county in the Upper Peninsula Potato Show's queen contest to be held here this week at the Coliseum.

SPUD PROGRESS IS DESCRIBED

Clanahan, Wenner Speak At Meeting Of Kiwanians

Since 1930, the number of acres planted to potatoes in the Upper Peninsula has increased from 15,000 to 28,000, and the growers have made much progress in raising their yields per acre, Denis L. Clanahan, Marquette, crops specialist of the Michigan State college extension department, said in a talk at the meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday.

Of the 16,000 farmers in the Upper Peninsula, 2,000 growers produce the bulk of the potatoes, with plots of three acres or more planted to tubers, Clanahan continued. Ten years ago, potatoes were stored in farmers' basements, barns, and root cellars, and there was not a single warehouse on track in the Upper Peninsula. At the first of this year, there were 44 warehouses with a total capacity of a million bushels on shipping tracks, and since then two more have been added to the list.

According to estimates, Upper Peninsula potato growers have about a million dollars invested in potato farming equipment. They spend $75,000 annually for spraying material, and $150,000 for fertilizer.

Twenty per cent of the nation's population is centered in five states in the Great Lakes region, which grows only 10 per cent of the annual potato production of the United States, Clanahan stated.

Despite the marketing advantages held by Michigan growers, Maine and Idaho potatoes are being sold in large quantities in their home market. He described briefly the plan of the Michigan Potato Development association, whereby each grower would contribute 50 cents per acre to advertise and promote Michigan spuds.

Clanahan presented interesting figures, which revealed that the average potato yield in Michigan is 105 bushels per acre; in the Upper Peninsula, 136 bushels; and in Delta and Schoolcraft counties, 178 bushels.

County Agent E. A. Wenner spoke briefly and introduced Mr. Clanahan. The county agent said that Delta county this year would have its largest potato crop in history, an estimated 600,000 bushels.

Eight 4th Class Postmasters Now On Salary Basis

Postmasters in eight Delta County post offices of the fourth class are now on a salary basis. The Post Office Department guarantees them a minimum income in order to compensate them more fully for the job of handling United States mails. The offices and salaries are:

Brampton, $672; Cornell, $824; Fayette, $892; Lathrop, $360; Masonville, $360; Perkins, $1,100; Saint Jacques, $216; and Stonington, $748.

These wages are small, department officials said, but it should be remembered that the operation of fourth class postoffices usually is in connection with the operation of some other business, as a retail store. The postoffice in most instances increases the number of potential customers for the other business, they explained.

By placing these postmasters on an income which, though subject to annual change, is known, the operation of fourth class offices is stabilized, it was said.

CITE BOOSTER PLAN BENEFITS

Delta Potato Industry Expected To Make Greater Gains

The increasing benefits accruing to Delta county through encouragement of the county's potato industry under the Escanaba Potato Boosters program, together with the valuable work of the extension service, was cited by speakers yesterday noon at the Escanaba Rotary Club meeting as holding promise for increase gains in the future.

Guest speakers at the meeting were Harry Reiley, sales manager for the Michigan Potato Growers Exchange; Dr. H. A. Moore, Michigan State College potato specialist; and E. J. Wheeler, MSC potato specialist whose work is primarily in the development of breeding new potato varieties. Claude Nash, marketing specialist for Michigan State College, also was a guest.

Reiley said that Michigan's certified seed is recognized as of outstanding quality in the nation. The trend in Delta county toward the production of more certified seed this year is estimated to have brought an additional $50,000 into the county, he added.

"More young men are interested in potato production in Delta county than in any other section I know," Reiley added. He compared the work that is being done as a bridge toward greater development in the future.

Dr. Moore complimented the Escanaba Potato Booster program and said the work that was being done here is being copied in other counties of the state. He compared the production of certified seed in this county with 25 years ago, when only one grower was engaged in such production. Yields per acre now go from 300 to over 500 bushels, and this year a "considerable records" is expected to be made in Delta county, Dr. Moore said. With continuing efforts the county can become a leader in certified seed work, he added.

Wheeler described his work in developing new potato varieties, and his tests conducted at potato shows to determine the cooking qualities of the tubers. This is done by immersing them in alcohol. In 39 tests at the Delia County Potato Show, the Sebagoes tested best for cooking.

A CORRECTION

The Daily Press regrets that a typographical error in the last sentence of the first paragraph in the advertisement in Sunday's Daily Press placed by friends of Harlan J. Yelland, candidate for prosecuting attorney, rendered the sentence meaningless.

The first paragraph with the corrected sentence follows:

When J. Clyde McGonagle enlisted (not drafted) in the Navy, he was Prosecuting Attorney on his second term. He then stated that he intended to turn the office over to Harlan J. Yelland, as they were, and are, personal friends. Afterwards, he was induced to turn the office over to another person (not a close or personal friend) for political reasons so that this person would receive the benefits from the office without being a candidate for the position. Mr. McGonagle's name is now on the ballot as a candidate for the office for a third term for the benefit of someone else. Persons behind this scheme say that it is done to assure Mr. McGonagle the office after his discharge from service. In view of the fact that nearly all of the present term will have been held by someone else, and that the chances are that Mr. McGonagle will not return until after the next two year term has expired, we ask the question as to whether this is being done for the benefit of MR. MCGONAGLE OR SOME OTHER PERSON, OR PERSONS, NOT ELECTED TO THE OFFICE, BUT DRAWING THE SALARY?

Filipinos Remain Loyal

IF ANY doubt existed in the minds of the people of this nation as to the sound loyalty of the Filipinos, after more than two years of domination by Japan, that doubt has been removed by the stirring welcome given to our military forces when they invaded Leyte island last week. Dispatches from the front lines, where General MacArthur's forces are sweeping the invaders toward certain annihilation, indicate that the reaction of the natives in the liberated cities and villages, is second only to the demonstrations staged by the people of France, when their day of liberation came only a few weeks ago.

For more than two years the Jap conquerers of the nation, over which America served as benevolent protector for so many years, have been endeavoring, by every possible means, to lead the Filipino people into their vaunted Asiatic influence. With complete control of all communication with the Philippine islands the Japs have prevented the people of America from learning the real extent of Filipino loyalty and it was not until General MacArthur fulfilled his pledge to return with American arms, last week, that the quality of that loyalty could be determined. Apparently the Filipino people have clung, through these trying years, to their appreciation of America's help and influence. If the loyalty encountered on Leyte can be accepted as evidence of the feeling of the natives on all of the islands, American forces can expect, as liberation is extended, much of the same cooperation as was given by the people of France when Allied armies swept the Nazis beyond the borders of their homeland.

Michigan Falls Behind

WHILE Delta county and other Upper Peninsula growers are making remarkable records in the production of potatoes, Fred Hibst of Cadillac, manager of the Michigan Potato Growers Exchange, makes the disconcerting disclosure that Michigan is losing its position as a producer in competition with other states.

In 1920, Michigan was in third place with a yield of 35 million bushels, but now it has dropped to eighth place with an estimated 16 million bushels. At the same time, Maine has climbed to first place with a yield of 58 million; Idaho is second with 36 million, and New York third with 26 million bushels.

But the most lamentable aspect of the situation is that Michigan growers are losing their own markets. Maine and Idaho are flooding Detroit with their potatoes, capturing the housewives' patronage right under the Michigan farmers' noses.

What is the reason? Well, Maine and Idaho producers, for years, have been striving for high quality potatoes. They have brushed them up and packed them in attractive bags, and then they have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to advertise their product to the American housewives. They have made the American housewives Maine and Idaho potato conscious, so that when he goes to the store she asks for them, much in the same manner as city folks once demanded Escanaba smelt.

Entertaining Delta county potato growers began emulating Maine and Idaho producers a few years ago. Now, a statewide movement has been inaugurated to get growers to contribute to a fund to be used for advertising Michigan potatoes. This sales promotion program, coupled with the more general adoption of growing practices that have brought big yields to Delta county farmers, should help Michigan to regain the prestige it once held in the potato industry.

They're Spreading Rumors

OFFICE-HOLDING politicians of both parties in Michigan are spreading much misinformation in an effort to defeat constitutional amendment proposal No. 4, which would give Wayne county an opportunity to reorganize its local governmental structure.

Holders of county and township offices, through their statewide associations, have been conducting a whispering campaign to confuse the voters about the "home rule" amendment. For instance, they are circulating rumors to the effect that the Detroit political gang is sponsoring the campaign for the No. 4 proposal, while the truth of the matter is that it was initiated by the civic-minded, law-abiding citizens who want to clean up Wayne county politics.

The politicians have been getting a lot of gravy out of the outmoded governmental set-up in Wayne county. They are determined to block the amendment change which would pave the way for truly representative, efficient and economical government. They are fearful that "home rule" would make a good showing in Wayne county, and probably spread to other counties of Michigan. It should be easy for the clear-headed voter to decide how to vote on the No. 4 proposal. All he has to do is to determine first what elements are lining up against it.

Walk With Care!

ESCANABA is participating in the Michigan pedestrian protection campaign, which will continue throughout October in a statewide effort to reduce pedestrian casualties on the highways and streets.

The problem of pedestrian safety is particularly acute in Detroit, Lansing and other industrial centers, where the thoroughfares are crowded with pedestrians and motorists. With workers going to and from plants at all hours of the day and night, hazards have greatly increased in such congested centers.

A two-fold campaign is being conducted. Pedestrians are being warned to "walk with care" by signs at crosswalks, and at the same time motorists are being told to watch for the safety of pedestrians. A good rule for pedestrians to observe is: "Do not jaywalk."

Food Takes Wings

THERE appears to be a good prospect that immediately after the end of the war, air shipment of perishable foods may be started as a regular commercial venture.

With large numbers of army transport planes to be converted to peacetime functions, and with an airplane industry capable of turning out improved commercial cargo planes, new uses for airplane traffic will be quickly developed. Airline shipments of fruits and vegetables from west to east and from south to north will be balanced by similar shipments of industrial goods from the northeast to the south and west. Without such return loads the cost of sending food by plane would become impossibly high.

For the first few postwar years, air shipments of food will take place on a relatively small scale, and prices charged for the products are likely to be out of the reach of the average consumer. As time goes on, however, the volume of air traffic will increase, prices will drop, and eventually millions of city consumers may be able to afford vine-ripened mid-winter tomatoes and strawberries picked in the field the day before. The improvement of quality resulting from the speed of air transport may even boost consumption of perishable fruits and vegetables to a new high.

It is believed that the construction of specially designed super-cargo planes will bring about reductions in the cost of air transport, to a degree that cannot be calculated at the present time. Ten or twenty years from now air-transported fresh foods may step down altogether from the luxury class and become a commonplace on consumer tables.

SPANISH UNREST

(Saginaw News)

The report that Gen. Franco's troops have taken to the field against armed republican elements lately returned from France focuses attention on the possibility of another civil war in Spain. The report may be in error but it is of a piece with earlier ones telling of a resurgent opposition movement against Franco's authority.

The greater such a movement is in scope the stronger its argument against the repressive measures which the Fascist regime has promulgated for its own theoretical security since it has been in power.

One of Franco's first acts after achieving a military victory over the republican government was to clap several hundred thousand of his countrymen into jail. Many were executed. Others died of ill treatment. At last reports no substantial number of the survivors had been released. Forced labor at the point of a bayonet became the trademark by which the Fascist government was known.

France overlooked a great opportunity in applied psychology. Instead of following out the Lincoln-Grant concept of healing a nation's wounds by magnanimity, he held all his late foes to account literally. Instead of granting amnesty wherever he could safely, he held to the pattern of revenge and spitefulness.

Doubtless in the reckoning of many who otherwise might have no partisan interest in his case, the Spanish dictator has earned and asked for a revolution even if none materializes.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

WORDS TO WATCH

Beaumont: Please emphasize in your column that veteran is not "VET-run."—One of 'em.

Answer: Right. This important word should have three syllables, thus: VET-er-un.

Quincy: Why do some broadcasters say "part-i-ZAN," for the word partisan?—Mrs. B.

Answer: It's the pronunciation customary among the British, who apparently believe they are using the French pronunciation (partisan is a French loan word).

But, in the French pronunciation, the first "a" is almost as flat as in "carrot," and the third syllable ends with the nasal sound, thus: par-tee-ZAH(N).

In the correct American pronunciation, only the first syllable is accented, and the "a" of the third syllable is obscured. Say: PAR-tee-zum.

Santa Monica: Please explain the spellings "theatre" and "theater," and advise the correct pronunciation.—H. G.

Answer: Theatre is the French spelling

World Events Analyzed

BY LESLIE BAIN

An old Hungarian aphorism says: "Hungary's greatest enemies have always been the Hungarians themselves." And once again it is proving to be tragically true. Hungary, for a small nation, has one of the bloodiest histories on the Continent and in most of their wars Magyars destroyed Magyars. If not the Hapsburg lackeys among the Hungarian aristocracy, then the Protestant lords were battling the Catholics, if the Junkers were not crusading against their peasants then they were fighting each other.

Hungarian lords led the Austrians and Germans against their own people as far back as 1514 and the same arrogant, selfish aristocrats sold out the Revolution of 1848 to the Austrians and the Hungarian Republic of 1918-19 to the Romanians. Now they are at it again, busily digging Hungary's grave by calling in the Nazis to stop a quick surrender to the Allies—the only chance the nation had to stay erect after the war.

—HUNGARY BETRAYED—

Not that Regent Horthy's regime was anything to cheer about, but at least Horthy read the handwriting on the wall and as a gesture of atonement for his many grievous sins was willing to stop the senseless slaughter along the Danube. But no, Hungarian traitors rose again to sell out their nation to foreign masters. Szalasi, leader of the Nyilas Kereszt, a Nazi organization, repudiated Horthy's armistice proposal and formed a "resistance" government whose hours are numbered. Nothing Szalasi and his Nazi cohorts can possibly do will hold up the Red army. Hungary is doomed. But instead of having had a chance partially to redeem itself as Italy, Romania and Bulgaria did, Hungary will be a pariah among the Danubian nations—thanks to a handful of Magyar terrorists.

The prospect for Hungary in the post-war world is gloomy indeed. Even without this last-minute gesture of defiance, her position was precarious. Surrounded by Slav nations whom the Magyars had oppressed for centuries and who are now in no mood to be lenient towards their erstwhile tormentors, the best Hungary could have hoped for was admittance into a larger federation as an equal member. Szalasi's coup all but robbed his country of that last chance.

However, the Hungarian problem must be approached realistically if for no other reason than because the Magyars live astride the life-line of all Central European nations: the Danube. The river is the jugular vein of an economic structure in which some hundred million people live from the Beskid mountains and the Schwarzwald to the Black sea. If all considerations, such as ethnic, political, historic and linguistic, are discarded, as they should be, still the future prosperity of Europe demands that Hungary be incorporated into the family of nations living in the valley of the Danube.

There are numerous precedents pointing toward such a solution. Several times in the Middle Ages Poland, Bohemia, Hungary and Transylvania formed an effective federal union under one king. Later, under the Hapsburgs, the Czechs, the Slovaks and the Magyars fought side by side against their common oppressors until Hungary was granted partnership in the Austro-Hungarian monarchy, whereupon the Magyars became the cruel tormentors of their former fellow slaves. And again during several centuries of Turkish rule of the area, Hungary was allied with the southern Slavs and led a peaceful cooperative existence with her neighbors.

—CURSED WITH FEUDAL LORDS—

Hungary's curse has always been the greed of her feudal lords. Knowing no loyalty except to their caste and class, the Hungarian lords, like their Russian, Polish, Prussian and Romanian counterparts, have maintained a heavy-handed rule over their peasants throughout the centuries. Ruthless, arrogant, cruel and selfish beyond Twentieth Century belief, the lords of Hungary used their human chattel for beasts of burden as well as for instruments for their predatory wars. That accounts for the emergence of millions of hard-working, kindly Magyars in modern times as a mass of ignorant, superstitious problem children.

It may be that Szalasi with his betrayal of Hungary performed a real service, just as Hitler, this observer believes, may go down in history as the evil which finally woke mankind up to the dangers threatening its hard-won liberties. Callous as this may sound, it appears to be true that man grows with suffering and hardship. Certainly, the aftermaths of this war will give plenty of opportunities to the Germans and the Hungarians to grow out of their barbaric past.

(In France it is pronounced: tay-AH-truh). The American spelling in best usage is "theater," following the custom of changing the "tre" of French loan words to "ter," as meter from metre, center from centre, enter from entre, etc. The "tre" spelling is still widely used in England.

Caution. The pronunciation "thee-AY-ter" is now regarded as illiterate. Better say: THEE-uh-ter.

In the Dutch language, the word "dam" means "a dam or dike to hold back water." The English word "dam" is of Dutch origin.

In the 1200's a dam was built on the canalized stream, the Rotte, and the city which grew here was called Rotterdam.

Likewise, the city and port of Amsterdam takes its name from the dam or dike of the canalized Amstel river which passes through the city. The Amstel dam was built in the 13th century by Giesbrecht III, and the city grew around his castle.

Edam, a port on the Zuider Zee (zoy-der ZAY), took its name from a dam built on the Ye. Edam is famous for its excellent sweet-milk cheese called in America: EE-dam. The correct Dutch pronunciation of Edam is: ay-DAHM.

WE ARE INTERESTED—For some reason difficult to understand, the proponents of home rule for Wayne county are attempting to persuade outstate folks that Proposal No. 4 should receive their support on election day—but that it should interest them only as it applies to Wayne county.

While it is true that a proposed amendment to the state constitution as it will be submitted to the voters Nov. 7 directly affects only Wayne county, it nevertheless has far-reaching possibilities for future reform of county government throughout Michigan. Opponents of county home rule have called Proposal No. 4 an "entering wedge" which will eventually split the present form of county government wide open.

The contention that county government is going to take it on the chin and that some form of monstrosity government will be adopted later is as false as the claim that the fight for home rule in Wayne county will not affect Delta county or any other outstate county.

On one hand we have the Detroit Citizens' League urging us to vote for Proposal No. 4 to give Wayne county people an opportunity to clean up their county political mess. On the other hand we have the Detroit Institute of Government, of which State Treasurer D. Hale Drake is chairman, urging us to vote against Proposal No. 4 because it is a menace to all county government in Michigan.

ON RECORD

There should be cards laid on the table in this matter of county home rule. A spade should be called a spade. The voters should be told (here and in every county in Michigan) that they have a greater stake in the adoption of Proposal No. 4 than a long-distance desire to assist Wayne county citizens in getting the kind of county government they want and need.

County officials who face facts and look to the future of county government in Michigan know that Proposal No. 4 is of vital importance. If this were not the case the big guns of the opposition would not be doing so much shooting, and by the same token, the conscientious county boards of supervisors would not be adopting resolutions asking for a study of county government with a view to its reform.

The Delta county board of supervisors has adopted a resolution requesting Gov. Kelly to appoint a county government study commission, this commission may recommend whatever reforms may be deemed necessary. So when Proposal No. 4 opponents sought to have the Delta supervisors at their October meeting adopt resolutions opposing Proposal No. 4, the board took no action on them. If they had they would have been placed in a position where they would oppose for Wayne county what they believe may be of value for Delta county.

DOES NO GOOD

The sensible attitude of the Delta county board of supervisors, unfortunately, has not been followed by other county boards in Michigan. Rather, Wayne county citizens in their efforts to find a way to change their county government, have been the subject of criticism by state-wide organizations including the Michigan Supervisors Association, the Michigan County Road Commissioners association, and other organizations composed of county officials.

While it is apparent that these organizations seek only to satisfy their own membership and continue a system that has made them politically strong, it does them no good in the long pull. If county government in Michigan

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—Judging by the type of mollycoddle investigation now being done by certain Senate committees, another Teapot Dome oil scandal could be pulled right under the nose of the Senate and no one would know the difference.

There doesn't seem to be a Tom Walsh or a Hugo Black or a Ferdinand Pecora in the entire Congress.

Most pathetic example of alleged investigation took place before 77-year-old Senator Green's committee for the probing of campaign expenditures.

The Rhode Island Senators' docile, do-nothing behavior was excellent corroboration of Dewey's thesis that old men can't run the government.

Senator Green and colleagues let witnesses blandly admit to tacit violations of the Corrupt Practices Act, admit the hiding of campaign contributions, with no action and little moral indignation expressed by the committee.

William J. Goodwin, treasurer of the American Democratic National Committee, (a Roosevelt-hating group, not to be confused with the Democratic National Committee), admitted a hidden contribution of several thousand dollars from Sears-Roebuck's Gen. Robert E. Wood, America First organizer, also from Wall Street Broker Ed Hutton; also from various corporations, despite the fact that it is against the law for corporations to contribute and for contributions of any kind to be hidden.

—A CHEERING SESSION—

After the milk-and-water session of the alleged investigating committee was over, those who were supposed to be investigated dropped in for a drink at the Carroll Arms hotel.

"Poor, dumb Bob Murphy," gloated Robert Harris, former Coughlinite, who is supporting the American Democratic National Committee. He was referring to the Senate Committee's attorney. "I wouldn't mind being investigated by him at any time."

William Goodwin, American Democratic Treasurer, then recited all over again his testimony before the committee and congratulated himself on making the Senators look silly.

"We should make Senator George of Georgia titular head of the Democratic party, after Roosevelt is defeated," advised Ralph Moore, ghost writer to Senator Pappy O'Daniel. "He'll hold the Solid South in line and might even be good presidential timber in 1948."

NOTE—Master-mind behind the American Democratic Committee is ex-Congressman John O'Connor. The Senate Committee had planned to call him, but bowed meekly before a letter from Nebraska's Senator Butler, who wrote Chairman Green that O'Connor and other members of the American Democrats were "very busy men."

—EISENHOWER FREE TO CARRY ON—

A group of U. S. Congressmen — both Republicans and Democrats—who visited France recently were greatly impressed with one particular conversation they had with General Eisenhower.

The General said that if he ever wrote a book — though he has no intention of doing so — he would devote several chapters to the freedom of action which has been permitted him in all matters.

He said he feared that, with the approaching elections, he might be under pressure to do something or say something which would have a favorable effect on the elections from the Administration's point of view.

But there has been a complete absence of such pressure, either regarding the making of statements which might have a political effect, or the shaping of his military strategy. In other words, he has been permitted to run the Western European war both in name and in fact.

—A PATRIOT'S ESTATE—

It escaped general attention, but after a great U. S. general was killed, the other day, his will was probated and he left an estate of less than $2,500. He was Lt. General Lesley McNair, killed in France. His son also was killed in action.

General McNair was one of the geniuses of the U. S. Army. He was responsible for the organization and training of the ground troops now doing such a magnificent job in France. Yet, under the system prevailing in the U. S. Army and Navy he was paid only a meagre salary, scarcely enough to live on. It made it impossible for him to save anything.

This points to the drastic need for higher salaries for American public servants today. It is one of the tragedies of this era that few men of real ability can afford to remain in government service for very long on current government salaries, unless they are independently wealthy. McNair was not only a great general but a great patriot. He stayed on and made the financial sacrifice, even before he made the supreme sacrifice.

An Illinois man drove his car a half hour in his sleep. This practice is becoming common in other states.

It'll be a lot easier for newly-weds to feather their nests when prices are down.

Right now our boys are getting somewhere in Europe. The time must never come when they'll get nowhere in America.

Most people think the two sides to a question are their side and the wrong side.

A lot of candidates are going to lose the race but not because they ran out of gas.

RED CROSS IS VERY ACTIVE

Organization Functions On Many Fronts In Delta County

Election of 10 directors for three-year terms, adoption of a new set of by-laws, reports of various committees' activities and a talk on the American Red Cross prisoners of war program featured the annual meeting of the Delta county chapter at the Escanaba city hall last evening. Chairman L. J. Jacobs presided.

Ten directors elected to the 30-member board were: O. V. Thatcher, Mrs. Arthur Barron, Mrs. Stanley Venne, Gladstone, Mrs. Al Johnson, Nahma; Rudie R. Jehn, Nahma; H. D. Brackett, Mrs. E. H. McDonald, Cornell; August Lundgaard, Cornell, and Alfred Brandt, Directors will meet on Nov. 1 to elect the chapter officers.

Edna Swingle, home service field representative from the regional St. Louis headquarters, stressed the importance of the prisoners of war program of the Red Cross. The American Red Cross is constantly endeavoring to obtain information for relatives about the condition of American servicemen in prison camps and performs various services for them. Food packages, the expense which is born by the Army and Navy, are distributed to prisoners of the Red Cross. Miss Swingle described the policies governing the operation of prisoner of war camps, as stipulated under the terms of the Geneva conference. She pointed out, however, that no man did not sign the agreement governing the treatment of prisoners of war.

Junior Group Active

Mrs. John Luecke, chairman of the Junior Red Cross, reported 45 elementary and three high schools are enrolled in this division. During the past year, these young workers made a total of 4,010 items, and shipped them to members of the armed forces at camps and hospitals. The list included veneer lap boards, hardwood canes, knitted afghans, crossword puzzles, cribbage sets and other articles.

Mrs. Louis Hoyler reported that $36.50 was expended during the year for supplies in conducting the home nurses training program. The Upper Peninsula conference on home nurses training will be at Escanaba in the near future, it was announced.

The report on nurses recruitment revealed that 26 young women entered the Nurses Cadet Corps from Delta county in 1943, while 34 enrolled in 1944. A total of 22 Delta county nurses have joined the armed forces.

Mrs. R. W. Haddock, chairman of the home production unit, reported that 565 women engaged in the work the past year. The production record showed a total of 4361 garments, 864 kit bags, 516 knitted garments, and 208,668 surgical dressings.

Home Service Corps

G. Z. Flanders reported on the rapidly increasing activities of the home service department, which during the past year handled over 1500 cases. The services include the assisting of service men in obtaining extension of furloughs for good reasons, loans to members of the armed forces and their families, and many other important services. The home service division maintains an office at 104 South Ninth street.

To take care of the additional duties of the home service division, an organization of volunteer workers is being formed. Eighteen women are now enrolled in the home service training course now being conducted here by Miss Swingle.

Mr. Flanders reported that Mrs. Anna Kraus was appointed chairman of the new prisoners of war committee, which will commence activities soon. A meeting of the next of kin of almost twenty Delta county boys, now confined in enemy prison camps, will be held in the near future, he stated.

Before the meeting closed, there was a general discussion of various rumors that are sometimes circulated in connection with Red Cross work. Miss Swingle said that the American Red Cross will welcome reports on any rumors and will do its utmost to come them to their source.

Polgar's Psychic Powers Described In Post Story

Dr. Franz J. Polgar, mental wizard who will appear on the Town Hall stage here Nov. 1, was the subject of an illustrated article which appeared last year in the Saturday Evening Post, describing his sensational demonstrations in the field of mental telepathy and hypnosis.

According to the Post article, Dr. Polgar told the manager of the Detroit Town Hall Forum to hide his pay check in the audience. They hid the check under the hat of a woman seated in the center of the vast throng of the hall. Polgar simply asked for a volunteer known to the audience to give him mental directions. Then he hurried down the aisle, shoved past protruding knees in the particular row, arrived at the woman and her hat.

Finding his check in a woman's hat was simple compared to some of his feats. In one city they hid an object under the upper plate in a man's mouth. In Chicago he found a war stamp hidden in an office of the fifteenth floor of a skyscraper.

Recently, on a radio show, four persons, all unknown to Polgar, hid an unknown object in an unknown place in the studio. Polgar was given two minutes to find it. He did it.

Dr. Polgar is a medium sized, almost shy fellow, with a smile-wrinkled face. He likes people and has a keen sense of humor. Polgar has lectured in this country since 1933, when he came from Hungary, where he was a student of psychoanalysis, hypnosis and other psychic phenomena.

When Polgar appears before an audience billed as a man who can read minds, memorize whole magazines at a single sitting and hypnotize many persons simultaneously, some of the throng are antagonistic, shouting at him mentally, "All right, you got us here. Now prove, if you can, that you are able to do what you say." By the end of the performance, speaker and audience are like old friends.

The man who finds hidden objects without any assistance, who memorizes at a glance, has also hypnotized some 75,000 persons in his time and has put many people to sleep at a single time.

A newspaper reporter for a New York paper flashed a picture of Polgar in action at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences and then fell asleep. The doctor had hypnotized him with almost a single glance.

Last fall the doctor hypnotized the Georgia Tech football team the day before they were slated to play Alabama. Georgia Tech won the game. The next Saturday, Polgar was hundreds of miles away, filling an engagement. The Georgia Tech team lost. Coincidence, no doubt, but for the remainder of the season the Atlanta papers were crying, "The team needs Polgar."

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Delbina Tolman, Marquette; Mrs. Vaila Loritz and Mrs. Laya Lenis, Escanaba; three sons, Arthur of L'Anse, Lawrence of Danforth and Edward of Park Falls, Wis.; a brother, Armose LaBine, Michigan; a sister, Mrs. Jennie Campbell, Marquette; 31 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

The body was brought to the Degan funeral home and will lie in state beginning at 2 p. m. today. Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Wednesday at Holy Family church, Flat Rock, with the Rev. Fr. M. H. Laviolette officiating. Burial will be in Holy Family cemetery at Flat Rock.

Obituary

CPL. CARL H. CARLSON

Funeral services for Corporal Carl H. Carlson, who was killed in an Army plane crash near Lake Charles, La., were held Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the Anderson funeral home chapel, here, and Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Baptist church in Gladstone. Rev. John Kallman officiated at both services. The services were very largely attended and there were many beautiful floral tributes.

At Saturday evening's rites, the pastor's text from Amos, 4th Chapter, 12th Verse, was: "Prepare to meet thy God." Two duets, "My Home, Sweet Home" and "God Will Take Care of You" were sung by Betty and Donna Mae Lindahl, Donna Mae playing the accompaniment.

At the church service Sunday, Rev. Mr. Kallman spoke on Samuel, 20th Chapter, 3d Verse.

Those from out-of-town at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Anderson of Ontonagon; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson, of Duluth; Mr. and Mrs. John Simensen, Felch; and Cpl. Norman L. Stock, Lake Charles, La.

There is but a step between me and death." Mrs. Victor Goodman and Dr. Herman Kasen sang "Beyond the Sunset" and "Does Jesus Care," with accompaniment by Donna Mae Lindahl.

Burial was in Lakeview cemetery, Escanaba.

Military rites were conducted by August Mattson Post of the American Legion. Pallbearers were Jens Wheaton, Post Commander, Peter Schultz, Jack Nylund, Gust Lierman, Archie Cowen and Elmer Caron; color bearers, Herb Holmberg and Carl Johnson; color guards, Cecil Brown and John Strom; chaplain, Archie Cowen; firing squad, Sylvester Schram, Gene Brassick, William Tufnell, Bill McCormick, Ed Jacobson, Ed Brunell and Earl Alm; and bugler, Frank Schense.

G. E. Dehlins
Are Peninsula
Pair Champions

BY LES W. OLSON
With a display of probably the most consistent bridge ever displayed at any of our previous tournaments Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Dehlin of Gladstone came through the two sessions of play with the fine average of 60.39 per cent to win the open pair championship of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and custody of the Escanaba Daily Press trophy for the coming year.

The fact that no less than ten pairs played over 50 per cent in the two sessions indicates just how close a tournament it really was. Every pair in the tournament was in there pitching until the final gun and no one was conceding anything to anyone. The tournament was without a doubt the finest and the most interesting of all the tournaments we have held in Escanaba.

There was, however, a fine feeling of friendliness that ran throughout the meeting that was grand. We will no doubt continue to hold our future tournaments on Saturday night and Sunday afternoons as we did this one. All who played agreed that it was far better in every way than the old schedule of playing it all off in one day.

There will be no meeting this week of the Delta Bridge League. The next meeting will be on Saturday, November 4. The meeting will be held at the Sherman hotel at 8 p. m. and all new and old members are urged to attend.

Pairs scoring over 50 per cent were as appended:

1. Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Dehlin, 4039.
2. Mrs. D. Remington and E. J. Kramer, 5823.
3. Mrs. E. Beck and Mrs. C. E. Johnson, 5606.
4. Mrs. C. W. Murdock and Mrs. L. W. Olson, 5524.
5. Mr. and Mrs. H. Needham, 5504.
6. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jensen, 5473.
7. Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Mowe, 5421.
8. Mrs. F. J. Earle and Mrs. J. L. Tenby, 5401.
9. Mrs. J. Kress and Mrs. F. McGraw, 5298.
10. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Erickson, 5133.

In a double ring ceremony which took place on Sunday, October 22, at high noon, at Bethany Lutheran church, Marilyn June Raess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Raess, of 1115 Tenth Avenue South, became the bride of Ensign Evans M. Bergquist, of the United States Naval Reserve, son of Mrs. J. M. Bergquist, 1007 Seventh Avenue South.

The vows were spoken before Dr. C. Albert Lund, who solemnized the service in a setting of fall flowers and palms which graced the altar and the chancel.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white tulle, fashioned with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, edged with beaded pearls, long sleeves and a full skirt. POOR ROAST
CAN SPOIL
GOOD COFFEE

Control in roasting is essential
For full development of flavor

To produce delicious flavor in the cup coffee must be, first of all, a blend of the finest green coffees. But, more than that, it must be roasted to absolute perfection. For it is during the roasting process that the flavor development of each coffee berry takes place.

Recognizing the variations in results with ordinary methods of roasting, Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., developed a special process, "Controlled Roasting." By this exclusive method the Hills Bros. Coffee blend, a blend of the finest coffees obtainable, is roasted a little at a time. As the stream of green coffees passes through the roasters, the speed of operation and temperature are precisely controlled. Every berry is done to the exact degree that insures matchless flavor, and any danger of flavor variation is eliminated.

That is the reason why Hills Bros. Coffee is famous for its delicious, distinctive flavor. Users of Hills Bros. Coffee know that they can depend on every pound for the same uniform goodness. By following the directions on the label, Hills Bros. Coffee can be used with successful results in any type of coffee-maker.

DRUNK DRIVER IS FINED $50

Owner Of Car Also Fined $50 And License Is Revoked

Charged with operating an auto while under the influence of intoxicants, Burdette Switzer, city, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs of $5 by Justice of Peace Henry Ranguette.

Edward Berg of Rapid River was arraigned before Justice Ranguette on a charge of allowing an intoxicated person to operate his automobile and upon his plea of guilty was also fined $50 and costs of $5 under a statute which provides the same penalty for a car owner allowing an intoxicated person to drive as it does for driving while intoxicated.

Berg and Switzer were arrested Sunday when state police investigated an auto accident near Trombley and found that an auto owned by Berg had failed to negotiate the crossing.

Originally it was planned to charge Berg with driving while drunk and Switzer with being drunk and disorderly. Yesterday the men insisted that Switzer, not Berg was driving, so charges were changed accordingly.

Operator's licenses were also revoked.

The Library of Congress houses the largest collection of material on American history in the world.

Damage estimated at $200,000,000 was caused by the Chicago fire of 1871.

COOK GUILTY, PLANS APPEAL

'Conchie' Convicted Of Getting Trapping Tag Illegally

Marvin Cook, of the CPS camp at Germfask, was convicted in justice court here Monday afternoon of a charge of falsely procuring a resident trapping license. He was fined $10 and $8.50 court costs or 15 days in the county jail. Cook indicated he would appeal the conviction.

Mrs. Lillian Caffey, Germfask, and Ernest Derwin, conservation officer, were witnesses for the prosecution. Mrs. Caffey, who sold the trapping license to Cook, testified that she had sent Cook to the conservation officer in Germfask to learn whether the youth was eligible for a license. Derwin reported that Cook and his companion, Karl Olson, merely asked whether a person in the state for six months was eligible for a resident trapping license.

Cook reported that he informed Mrs. Caffey that he had arrived at Germfask May 12 and said that neither he nor Mrs. Caffey had realized Cook had not been in the state long enough to establish residence as required by the trapping law.

Cook was supported in his story by Olson and John Menezes, other members of the conscientious objector camp.

Justice of the Peace W. G. Stephens ruled that Cook was guilty of the offense as charged and assessed the $10 fine and $8.50 costs or 15 days in the county jail.

Pending the filing of appeal papers and the furnishing of a bond, Cook was detained in the county jail.

He received the following commendation from Thomas B. Godfrey, Major, Infantry, U. S. Army: "I am highly commended for your presence of mind and prompt intelligent action in the fight which took place August 1, 1944 at France."

2. It has been revealed that on the above date, you, after being badly wounded in the right leg by hostile fire, and while still under intense enemy machine gun and 20 mm fire, did not allow the 14 ton C & R car you were driving to halt, but used the hand throttle to operate the vehicle to a safe place, thereby saving your life, the lives of the other occupants of the vehicle and the vehicle with its equipment. Full cognizance is taken of the fact that you could not and did not receive first aid for your injuries, until some period of time had elapsed after your being wounded.

3. It gives me great delight to have the opportunity to recognize and commend such action on your part.

Danko Tells Of Double Invasion Of French Coasts

S. I. C. Francis E. Danko, who returned recently from France where he participated in the invasions of the Normandy peninsula and southern France, is leaving this morning for New York to return to active duty with the U. S. Navy, after spending several days with his father, John Danko, Elm street.

Danko was aboard a destroyer that spent 40 days, beginning with D-day, off the Normandy coast in the invasion of France and then with that chore completed the destroyer moved to the Mediterranean, where the warship participated in the invasion of southern France.

"The Normandy operation was by far the worst," Danko reported. "Our objectives in the initial attack were shore batteries and observation towers, some of them church steeples that the Germans had taken over. We moved to within 500 yards of the Normandy coast."

The Manistique sailor, who entered service two years ago, said that the Germans offered opposition only from shore batteries during the day but sent over torpedo planes and bombers as well as E boats, the speedy torpedo boats, at night.

"We were at general quarters every night as soon as darkness came and our guns were ready for anything. The only sleep we got then was a four hours during the day. The night attacks, however, did not muss us up but we did take some direct hits from shore batteries. My gun was knocked out for a half day, but fortunately no one was seriously hurt. When our ammunition of fuel ran low, we ran back to England for more supplies and then returned to the battle zone."

"After 40 days off Normandy, we went to the Mediterranean and participated in several patrols there before we went to southern France with that invasion. The Germans were not very ambitious there, however, and we didn't run into any trouble there."

The Roving Reporter

Finally worms its way through you and gradually starts to devour you.

It's the perpetual dust choking you, the hard ground wracking your muscles, the snatched food sitting ill on your stomach, the heat and the flies and dirty feet and the constant roar of engines and the perpetual moving and the never settling down and the go, go, go, night and day, and on through the night again.

Eventually it all works itself into an emotional tapestry of one dull, dead pattern—yesterday is tomorrow and Troina is Randazzo and when will we ever stop and God, I'm so tired.

I've noticed this feeling has begun to overtake the war correspondents themselves. It is true that we don't fight on and on like the infantry, that we are usually under fire only briefly and that, indeed, we live better than the average soldier. Yet our lives are strangely consuming in that we do live primitively and at the same time must delve into ourselves and do creative writing.

That statement may lay me open to wise cracks, but however it may seem to you, writing is an exhausting and tearing thing. Most of the correspondents work like slaves. Especially is this true of the press-association men. A great part of the time they go from dawn till midnight or 2 a. m.

I'm sure they turn in as much toil in a week as any newspaperman at home does in two weeks. We travel continuously, move camp every few days, eat out, sleep out, write wherever we can and just never catch up on sleep, rest, cleanliness, or anything else normal.

The result is that all of us who have been with the thing for more than a year have finally grown befogged. We are grimy, mentally as well as physically. We've drained our emotions until they crinkle from being coiled out from hiding. We look at bravery and death and battlefield waste and new countries almost as blind men, seeing only faintly and not really wanting to see at all.

Just in the past month the old-timers among the correspondents have been talking for the first time about wanting to go home for a while. They want a change, something to freshen their outlook. They feel they have lost their perspective by being too close for too long.

I am not writing this to make heroes of the correspondents, because only a few look upon themselves in any dramatic light whatever. I am writing it merely to let you know that correspondents too can get damn sick of war—and dead tired.

BIRDS EYE BACK ON 6 DAY WEEK

Night And Day Shifts
Back On Former Schedule

Bird Eye Veneer company employees went back on a full time, six days a week basis Monday after a temporary cut back to five days. Logs have been coming into the company yards in increased quantity and the inventory has been built up now to a point which makes increased working hours possible. Both night and day shifts are affected by the new work schedule. Operations also were resumed at the basswood mill.

During the temporary lull workmen were employed in cleaning out the steam vats in which the maple logs are prepared, and the finishing touches to boiler repairs were made also.

Approximately 80 per cent of current production of the veneer company is in fulfillment of contracts for critical war materials. Veneer for B-29 bombers and gliders is part of the company's important output. Practically all floor boards in all bombers are hollow core construction, and the basswood mill turns out a considerable quantity of material for that purpose.

Officials of the company stated they anticipate no difficulty in maintaining peace time production following the war. The activity in the production of war products has resulted in a shortage in civilian markets. After the war these markets, it was said, will require large quantities of the veneer company's product, to be used in the manufacture of furniture and other civilian goods.
